1. A Soviet officer, wearing red-black shoulderboards, from the Sundhauser Kaserne in Gotha, called on a local engineering firm and left the original of the sketch shown in Appendix A. He asked the firm to quote a price for making 90 such parts. The following day, the Soviet officer told the firm in question that the price was too high and took the sketch away with him.
2. The firm of Heinz Callson of Gotha, Kastanien Allee, has also received from a Soviet military department the order to build a special piece of equipment. The drawings of this equipment amount to 10 sheets of blue prints, without any markings. This equipment is believed to be a sighting device for guns.
